HUGHES TO VISIT KENTUCKY AGAIN

REPUBLICAN NOMINEE WILL MARCH WITH SPICERES IN BLUE GRASS STATE

LOUISVILLE THURSDAY

Sterling Lampert Will Wind Up Fall Trip—Local Politicians Will Hear Address.

Charles E. Hughes, Republican nominee for President, whose address in Louisville on September 5 drew the biggest crowd that ever has attended a political gathering in that city, will return to Kentucky for a series of speeches next Thursday, October 12, it was announced last night by L. T. Petty, chairman of the Republican State Campaign Committee.

Mr. Hughes will enter Kentucky from West Virginia Thursday morning and sweep thru the Valley of the Big Sandy River, making speeches at the larger cities of that section.

He will conclude his trip with an address at Phoenix Hill Park, in Louisville, at 8 o'clock Thursday night.

Itinerary Announced.

The itinerary for the Republican nominee's return visit, as announced by Chairman Petty, follows: Pikeville, 8 a. m.; Prestonsburg, 9:45 a. m.; Paintsville, 10:40 a. m.; Louisa, 12:20 p. m.; Ashland, 1:30 p. m., and Louisville at 8 o'clock that night. Mr. Hughes' special train will make the jump from Ashland to Louisville without a stop.

Republican State Headquarters, following receipt of definite information relative to Mr. Hughes' itinerary, last night began an active campaign of preparation for the return visit of the nominee. Mr. Petty and his aids promptly notified, by telephone and telegraph, the county chairmen and other leaders of the section there with Mr. Hughes is to pass apprising them of the honor to be paid them.

Sentiment Is Strong.

Tae Big Sandy Valley, in which Mr. Hughes is to make five speeches, is seething with Republican sentiment, and it is a foregone conclusion that the nominee will be greeted by huge crowds at every point.

Arrangements will be made immediately for the rally in Louisville Thursday night. Additional seats will be placed in Phoenix Hill Park and every other arrangement which forethought can suggest will be made for handling the enormous crowd, which is certain to greet Mr. Hughes. The nominee probably will be the only speaker of the occasion.

Since the opening of the State campaign in Lexington last month, when Mr. Hughes' personality and address made a deep impression upon all who were able to get within seeing or hearing distance, the State Campaign Committee has been inundated with demands that Mr. Hughes be brought back to Kentucky for further speeches.

Return Was Expected.

Several weeks ago Mr. Hughes promised to pay a return visit, but the Campaign Committee withheld the announcement until it was in a position to announce his itinerary.

The return of Mr. Hughes furnishes additional proof, if any were needed, that the national leaders of the Republican party look upon Kentucky as a doubtful State in this year's campaign.

Since the opening of the campaign, the national organization has been sending some of the best speakers of the party to this State, and has promised several additional orators whose fame is even more than national. Some of those who have been visiting in the Kentucky fight are Senator Warren G. Harding, of Ohio; Albertr P. Gardner, of Maine; Congressman Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio; former Congressmen G. J. Deukmeian and Edward Prentiss, of Michigan, and others of equal note.

Much Interest Shown.

The deep interest being shown in this State by the party's national leaders, the big crowds which are greeting the orators now touring the State and the splendid gains shown by the registration of Tuesday, have inspired in the members of the State campaign organization a firm confidence that only unremitting effort is needed to place Kentucky in the Republican column next November. Louisville Herald of Thursday.

CONVICT OFFICE REWARD FOR TWO WHO ESCAPED

Ossining, N. Y., Oct. 2. Escape of two convicts from the "honor gang" working outside Sing Sing prison stirred the Mutual Welfare League, a convicts' organization, today to offer rewards of $100 each for their arrest. The outside branch of the league in New York City also notified Warden Thomas M. Oshorne this afternoon that efforts would be made to capture the refugees if they appeared in the metropolis. The men, Thomas Winters, sentenced for burglary, and Edward Kelly, sentenced for life for murder, fled last night from the prison farm at Beckman.

PORKERS CHEAPER

But Charge For Bread and Butter Outsets Savings.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 4.—The first important break for more than a year in the steadily rising market for meat in the Pittsburgh district was forecast today when hogs were quoted at Herr's Island Stock Yards seventy cents per hundred lower than yesterday, with the highest prices at $3.50. Heavy receipts and a falling off in demand were given by brokers as the cause of the slump.

Any saving which might be effected from this cause, however, was balanced by the announcement of leading hotel managers that ten cents would be added to all checks for meals to cover the cost of bread and butter. One manager declared these costs him approximately $100 a day and he could not afford it. The rule becomes operative next Monday.

CENTRAL CITY MINES WILL RESUME WORK

Central City, Ky., Oct. 4. The Central Coal & Iron Company, operating the du Pont mines at this place, has posted notices that its mines will resume work Tuesday, October 10, under a contract with the Southern Miners' Association, recently organized at this place. The United Mine Workers of America will not be recognized as an organization, but members of that union may work by joining the new organization.

The organization of the Southern Miners' Association is a result of last spring's deliberations over wage disputes with the Western Kentucky Operators' Association. The national officers would not give the miners financial assistance, it is said, when they voted down the operators' proposition for a settlement. The miners claim they paid into the national organization's treasury thousands of dollars for the benefit of striking miners in other districts, and that so far they never been able to obtain any relief when standing out for their rights.

TRIAL OF FINLEY AND MALONE SET FOR MONDAY

Alfred Finley and George Malone whose ages are given as 17 and 13, respectively of near Fordsville, were arrested in Owingsboro, brought to Hartford and lodged in jail last Thursday night, charged with horse stealing. The boys are charged with, and as we are informed, confess to have taken a horse belonging to Mr. W. T. Keown and one belonging to Mr. John Bellamy, from Fordsville last Sunday night where the horses had been ridden to church and hitched. The boys claim that they simply took the horses, rode them to or near Owingsboro and turned them loose. Finley and Malone, in default of bail are now in jail, their examining trial has been set for next Monday.

Both of the horses have been recovered by their owners.

Car Strike Settled.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 4.—The strike which had completely tied up trolley service in Albany and Rensselaer since Monday and in Troy, Green Island, Cohoes and Watervliet since yesterday was settled at noon today. Differences between the men and the United Traction Company officials will be adjusted by arbitration. Orders were immediately issued for the resumption of service as soon as possible.

SHERIFF'S SHOT DEADLY

Shelby County Officer Kills Man Who Took Louisville Girl From Home.

Says Fourth District Congressman Detinental to Capitol and Urges Election of Huswell.

The fight of Roy Dickson with 12-year-old Catherine Letting, daughter of Joseph Letting, a farmer on the Campground road, seven miles from Louisville, was checked on the roadside near Boggard, at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, when Sheriff J. L. Smith, of Shelbyville, and deputies in an automobile overtook Dickson and the girl, killing the man as he raised a shotgun in reply to a command to surrender.

About forty women who gathered and offered shelter to the child, clamored for vengeance as the man lay dead shot through the head. Cans of kerosene were brought and there were shouts of "Burn him."

For more than thirty minutes a squad of county policemen, under Capt. C. J. Purcell, guarded the body and fought with the women to keep them back from the body. Finally, under escort, the body was conveyed to Shannon's undertaking establishment at Shelbyville.

On the witness stand the child related how Dickson, who was an employee on the Letting farm, took her away in a mule-drawn wagon belonging to her father and deserted it at Preston street, near the Haymarket.

She said Dickson told her he was going to take her to Frankfort, Ky., and they boarded an interurban car, alighting at Shelbyville. Privately the child told Coroner Bullock of occurrences on the wayside, but denied improper relations at the hotel where they spent the night as S. Smith and daughter of Lexington.

"When we left the car," the child related, "he and I walked along a road until we came to some bushes. He dragged me into the bushes and then tied my hands. Then he put a rag in my mouth."

The child was in a serious condition Monday night when Dickson called at the Adamson Hotel and registered. The police say he informed the proprietor of the hotel that the girl was his child, and that he was searching for his wife, "who had eloped with another man." Because of the differences of the ages of the two, Dickson's word was accepted without question and he and the child occupied the same room.

Hon. W. E. Andrews, former assistant auditor of the U. S. Treasury, spoke in the court house here Monday afternoon. The ability of the speaker was not known locally and the audience was not as large as it should have been. County Court was in session in the lower part of the court house and inability to have the witnesses released for the occasion also served to decrease the attendance.

Mr. Andrews made ridiculous many of the acts and policies of the Democratic administration and his explanation of the necessity of a protective tariff, especially after the war, was made quite plain to his hearers. He proved to be one of the best posted men along the lines of government finances that ever spoke in Hartford and his practical way of proving his points made friends for himself and votes for the Republican party.

During his address the former Auditor touched upon the Congressional race in the Fourth District and said that boasts of Congressman Johnson having saved the Government great sums of money was largely political talk. He stated that no large sums of money had been returned to the Treasury by Johnson when he left the Treasury Department in 1915. He charged that Johnson was a detriment to the National Capitol and urged his hearers to vote for Haskell in November.

Mr. Andrews was introduced by A. D. Kirk, Republican nominee for County Attorney.

Fordsville, Ky., Oct. 3.—Hon. W. E. Andrews spoke here last night to a large and enthusiastic audience. He was introduced by Sam Gaines and immediately plunged into one of the greatest political addresses ever heard here.

He held the attention of his audience throughout the evening and all of those who heard him were immensely pleased.

ALL OF MOBILIZED GUARD TO SEE BORDER SERVICE

Washington, Oct. 3.—Secretary Baker announced late today that all National Guard troops now in mobilization camps would be sent to the border "in the immediate future" and in each instance organizations on the border would be returned to their home stations upon the arrival of new units.

The troops which have not yet seen border service and which now will be sent South are units in Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, Colorado, New Hampshire, New York and Mississippi. With the exception of Alabama, Georgia and Colorado only small detachments remain in these States.

The Secretary's statement was the first official announcement that the War Department had adopted a policy calling for border service for all the National Guardsmen before they are mustered out. It had been understood for several weeks, however, that this course would be pursued. Department officials expect the last of the units to be moving toward the border within the next week or ten days.

ACTIVE CAMPAIGN

Planned to Relieve Armenian And Syrian War Victims.

Washington, Oct. 4.—An active campaign to solicit $5,000,000 for relief of about 1,000,000 Armenian and Syrian war victims was under way to-day, directed by the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief. A statement issued by the committee declared nearly three-quarters of a million Armenians, or nearly one-half the number in their native country at the beginning of the war, have been massacred by Turks or died of hunger or disease. The committee urged special efforts for collection of funds on October 21 and 22, designated by President Wilson as special Armenian and Syrian relief days.

The Turkish Government already has given consent for distribution of relief among Syrians, and authority has been secured for passage of supplies through the Allied blockade. The State Department hopes to obtain an extension of these privileges to Armenia.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OF J. S. MASON

Friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Mason, on the Hartford and Owingsboro road, near Buford, Wednesday and celebrated the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Mason. The occasion was a very enjoyable one for all present, especially the hosts who are Hale and hearty after years of useful life as citizens.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason are very prominent and probably no couple is better known in the county. A golden wedding anniversary, terminating fifty years of happy married life, is a great occasion and if congratulations are ever proper they surely are at that time.

The party was craftily arranged by Mrs. I. S. Mason without the knowledge of her parents-in-law and the compliment was appreciated by the hosts. The following were present:

Mrs. R. C. Yager, Addison Hall, Crestwood; Miss Mattie Bennett, Miss Dora Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. James Bennett, Mrs. Frank Bennett, Calhoun; Mr. and Mrs. John Ruby and daughter Bessie, Mrs. Barbara Flecklin, Owingsboro; Mrs. Wilbur Mitchell, Beaver Dam; Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Cundiff, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Magan and son, Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. William Boyles, Mrs. Oscar Turner, Mrs. Fannie Blair, Mr. John Holbrook, Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Mason and daughter, Mary Ike, Mrs. Louis Turner.

Injured on Load of Hay.

Mr. W. R. Gray, of or near Taylor Mills, was painfully and seriously injured on last Wednesday when attempting to drive into a barn with a load of hay which was higher than he thought. Mr. Gray was caught between the hay and barn roof or plate, crushing and bruising him very badly. Physicians also think that Mr. Gray's spine is injured, though to what extent they have not been able to tell.

G. O. P. RECEPTION A HAPPY REUNION

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT MEET AND SHAKE HANDS BEFORE HUGHES.

THREE ASSAIL WILSON

Attack Administration Policies From Same Platform In New York City.

New York, Oct. 3.—Charles E. Hughes, Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft spoke tonight from the same platform at a reception given by Mr. Hughes by the Union League Club of this city.

The occasion served to bring Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft face to face for the first time in more than a year. They clasped hands for a moment, each said to the other, "How do you do?" and howed. Col. Roosevelt then passed on to take his place in the reviewing line.

Later in the evening Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft met again in the elevator with Chauncey M. Depew and George R. Sheldon. Col. Roosevelt, it was reported, inquired after the health of Mrs. Taft. They did not meet again during the evening.

Trio Assails Wilson.

Messrs. Hughes, Roosevelt and Taft addressed the club members and their guests, after the formal reception in the main room of the club. In their speeches each assailed the Administration more vigorously than before during the present campaign.

"We have heard in recent days," Mr. Hughes said, "that the alternative of the policy of the present Administration is war. I think that the alternative of the present Administration is peace with honor."

Col. Roosevelt vigorously denounced the Administration's foreign policy, declaring that there would be no debate in the German Reichstag as to the resumption of submarine warfare "if they knew that they had as President of the United States a man who would not tolerate any kind of action of that sort."

Invitation For Insult.

President Wilson's speech on Saturday, Col. Roosevelt said, left an inference that if he were re-elected he would not be drawn into war, "leaving it to be inferred by the outside world that nobody could insult him so that he would fight."

"Mr. Wilson's speech last Saturday," Col. Roosevelt continues, "was an invitation to foreign Powers to do whatever they wished because if he were in power they need not be afraid."

Mr. Wilson, Col. Roosevelt said, "is praised for the most part by people with shoulders that slope like a champagne bottle, by people with timid hearts and quivering voices who say that he has kept us out of war."

Mr. Taft said that he concurred in the view of Mr. Roosevelt that this election is the most "important" since the Civil War, and declared that he did not consider that the Administration had kept the country out of war.

No Introduction.

When they were brought face to face tonight by Mr. Sheldon, there was no word of introduction—no time for it. For a fraction of a second their eyes met and each looked into the others' unsmiling face.

Then Mr. Taft extended his hand and Col. Roosevelt took it.

There were other handshakes of a formal nature. Among them were meetings between George W. Perkins and Mr. Taft and between Col. Roosevelt and Boles Peacock, Senator from Pennsylvania. As in the case of the greeting between Taft and Roosevelt, the commonplaces of meeting were exchanged.</p

Republican Platform 1916

The Republican has received several requests for publication of the Republican platform of 1916 adopted at the Chicago Convention. The requests, which come from our country readers, are complied with below.

In 1861 the Republican Party stood for the Union. As it stood for the Union of States, it now stands for a united people, true to American ideals, loyal to American traditions, knowing no allegiance except to the Constitution, to the Government and to the flag of the United States. We believe in American policies at home and abroad.

Protection of American Rights.
We declare that we believe in and will enforce the protection of every American citizen in all the rights secured to him by the Constitution, by treaties and the law of nations, at home and abroad, by land and sea. These rights, which, in violation of the specific promise of their party made at Baltimore in 1912, the Democratic President and the Democratic Congress have failed to defend, we will unflinchingly maintain.

Foreign Relations.

We desire, the peace of justice and right, and believe in maintaining a strict and honest neutrality between the belligerents in the great war in Europe. We must perform all our duties and insist upon all our rights as neutrals without fear and without favor. We believe that peace and neutrality, as well as the dignity and influence of the United States, can not be preserved by shifty expedients, by phrase-making, by performances in language, or by attitudes ever changing in an effort to secure groups of voters. The present administration has destroyed our influence abroad and humiliated us in our own eyes. The Republican Party believes that a firm, consistent, and courageous foreign policy, always maintained by Republican Presidents in accordance with American traditions, is the best, as it is the only true way, to preserve our peace and restore us to our rightful place among nations. We believe in the pacific settlement of international disputes, and favor the establishment of a world court for that purpose.

Mexico.

We deeply sympathize with the 15,000,000 people of Mexico who for three years have seen their country devastated, their homes destroyed, their fellow citizens murdered and their women outraged, by armed bands of desperadoes led by self-seeking, conscienceless agitators who, when temporarily successful in any locality, have neither sought nor been able to restore order or establish and maintain peace.

We express our horror and indignation at the outrages which have been and are being perpetrated by these bandits upon American men and women who were or are in Mexico by invitation of the laws and of the Government of that country and whose rights to security of person and property are guaranteed by solemn treaty obligations. We denounce the indefensible methods of interference employed by this administration in the internal affairs of Mexico and refer with shame to its failure to discharge the duty of this country as next friend to Mexico, its duty to other powers who have relied upon us as such friend, and its duty to our citizens in Mexico, in permitting the continuance of such conditions, first by failure to act promptly and firmly, and second, by lending its influence to the continuation of such conditions through recognition of one of the factions responsible for these outrages.

We pledge our aid in restoring order and maintaining peace in Mexico. We promise to our citizens on and near our border, and to those in Mexico, wherever they may be found, adequate and absolute protection in their lives, liberty and property.

Monroe Doctrine.

We reaffirm our approval of the Monroe doctrine, and declare its maintenance to be a policy of this country essential to its present and future peace and safety and to the achievement of its manifest destiny.

Latin America.

We favor the continuance of Republican policies which will result in drawing more and more closely the commercial, financial and social relations between this country and the countries of Latin America.

Philippines.

We renew our allegiance to the Philippine policy inaugurated by McKinley, approved by Congress and consistently carried out by Roosevelt and Taft. Even in this short time it has enormously improved the material and social conditions of the Islands, given the Philippine people a constantly increasing participation in their government and, if persisted in, will bring still greater benefits in the future.

We accepted the responsibility of the islands as a duty to civilization and the Filipino people. To leave with our task half done, would break our pledges, injure our prestige among nations, and imperil what has already been accomplished.

We condemn the Democratic administration for its attempt to abandon the Philippines, which was prevented only by the vigorous opposition of Republican Members of Congress, aided by a few patriotic Democrats.

We reiterate the unqualified approval of the action taken in December, 1911, by the President and Congress to secure with Russia, as with other countries, a treaty that will recognize the absolute right of expatriation and prevent all discrimination of whatever kind between American citizens whether native born or alien, and regardless of race, religion or previous political allegiance.

We renew the pledge to observe this principle and to maintain the right of asylum, which is neither to be surrendered nor restricted, and we unite in the cherished hope that the war which is now desolating the world may speedily end, with a complete and lasting restoration of brotherhood among the nations of the earth and the assurance of full equal rights, civil and religious, to all men in every land.

Protection of the Country.

In order to maintain our peace and make certain the security of our people within our own borders the country must have not only adequate but thorough and complete national defenses ready for any emergency. We must have a sufficient and effective Regular Army, and a provision for ample reserves, already drilled and disciplined, who can be called at once to the colors when the hour of danger comes.

We must have a Navy so strong and so well proportioned and equipped, so thoroughly ready and prepared, that no enemy can gain command of the sea and effect a landing in force on either our western or our eastern coast. To secure these results we must have a coherent and continuous policy of national defense, which even in these perilous days the Democratic Party has utterly failed to develop, but which we propose to give to the country.

Tariff.

The Republican Party stands now, as always, in the fullest sense for the policy of tariff protection to American industries and American labor and does not regard an antidumping provision as an adequate substitute.

Such protection should be reasonable in amount but sufficient to protect adequately American industries and American labor and so adjusted as to prevent undue exactions by monopolies or trusts. It should, moreover, give special attention to securing the industrial independence of the United States as in the case of dyestuffs.

Through wise tariff and industrial legislation our industries can be so organized that they will become not only a commercial bulwark but a powerful aid to national defense.

The Underwood tariff act is a complete failure in every respect. Under its administration imports have enormously increased in spite of the fact that intercourse with foreign countries has been largely cut off by reason of the war, while the revenues of which we stand in such dire need have been greatly reduced.

Under the normal conditions which prevailed prior to the war it was clearly demonstrated that this act deprived the American producer and the American wage earner of that market which enabled them to compete with foreign competitors, and that the wanton conditions created by the war, would long since generalized all forms of American industry and deprive American labor of its just reward.

It has not in the least degree relieved the cost of living, which has constantly advanced from the date of its enactment. The welfare of our people demands its repeal and the substitution of a measure which in time as well as in war will produce revenue and give reasonable protection to all forms of American production in mine, forest, field and factory.

We favor the creation of a tariff commission with complete power to gather and compile information for the use of Congress in all matters relating to the tariff.

Business.

The Republican Party has long believed in the rigid supervision and strict regulation of the transportation and great corporations of the country. It has put its creed into its deeds, and all really effective laws regulating the railroads and the great industrial corporations are the work of Republican Congresses and Presidents. For this policy of regulation and supervision the Democrats, in a stumbling and piecemeal way, are undertaking to involve the Government in business which should be left within the sphere of private enterprise and in direct competition with its own citizens, a policy which is sure to result in an inferior product.

The Republican Party firmly believes that all who violate the laws in regulation of business, should be individually punished. But prosecution is very different from persecution, and business success, no matter how honestly attained, is apparently regarded by the Democratic party as in itself a crime. Such doctrines and beliefs choke enterprise and stifle prosperity. The Republican Party believes in encouraging American business, as it believes in and will seek to advance all American interests.

Rural Credits.

We favor an effective system of rural credits as opposed to the ineffective law proposed by the present Democratic administration.

Rural Free Delivery.

We favor the extension of the rural free delivery system and condemn the Democratic administration for curtailing and crippling it.

Merchant Marine.

In view of the policies adopted by all the maritime nations to encourage their shipping interests, and in order to enable us to compete with them for the ocean-carrying trade, we favor the payment to ships engaged in the foreign trade of liberal compensation for services actually rendered in carrying the mails, and such further legislation as will build up an adequate American merchant marine and give us ships which may be requisitioned by the Government in time of national emergency.

We are utterly opposed to the Government ownership of vessels as proposed by the Democratic Party, because Government-owned ships, while effectively preventing the development of the American merchant marine by private capital, will be entirely unable to provide for the vast volume of American freights and will leave us more helpless than ever in the hard grip of foreign syndicates.

Railroads.

Interstate and intrastate transportation have become so interwoven that the attempts to apply two and often several sets of laws to its regulation has produced conflicts of authority, embarrassment in operation and inconvenience and expense to the public.

The entire transportation system of the country has become essentially national. We, therefore, favor such action by legislation or, if necessary, through an amendment to the Constitution of the United States as will result in placing it under complete Federal control.

Economy and a National Budget.

The increasing cost of the National Government and the need for the greatest economy of its resources in order to meet the growing demands of the people for Government service call for the severest condemnation of the wasteful appropriations of this Democratic administration, of its shameless raids on the Treasury, and of its opposition to and rejection of President Taft's oft-repeated proposals and earnest efforts to secure economy and efficiency through the establishment of a simple businesslike budget system to which we pledge our support and which we hold to be necessary to effect any real reform in the administration of national finances.

Conservation.

We believe in a careful husbandry of all the natural resources of the Nation—a husbandry which means development without waste; use without waste.

Civil Service Reform.

The Civil Service Law has always been sustained by the Republican Party, and we renew our repeated declaration that it shall be thoroughly and honestly enforced and extended wherever practicable. The Democratic Party has created since March 4, 1913, 30,000 offices outside of the Civil Service Law at an annual cost of $44,000,000 to the taxpayers of the country.

We condemn the gross abuse and misuse of the law by the present Democratic administration and we pledge ourselves to a reorganization of this service along lines of efficiency and economy.

Territorial Officials.

Reaffirming the attitude long maintained by the Republican party, we hold that officials appointed to administer the government of any Territory should be bona fide residents of the Territory in which their duties are to be performed.

Labor Laws.

We pledge the Republican party to the faithful enforcement of all Federal laws passed for the protection of labor. We favor vocational education; the enactment and rigid enforcement of a Federal child-labor law; the enactment of a generous and comprehensive workman's compensation law, within the concurrent power of Congress, and an accident compensation law covering all Government employees. We favor the collection and collation, under the direction of the Department of Labor, of complete data relating to industrial hazards for the information of Congress, to the end that such legislation may be adopted as may be calculated to secure the safety, conservation and protection of labor from the dangers incident to industry and transportation.

Suffrage.

The Republican party, reaffirming its faith in government of the people, by the people, for the people, is a measure of justice to one-half the adult people of the country, favors the extension of the suffrage to women, but recognizes the right of each State to settle this question for itself.

Such are our principles, such are our purposes and policies. We close as we began. The times are dangerous and the future is fraught with peril. The great issues of the day have been confused by words and phrases. The American spirit, which made the country and saved the Union, has been forgotten by those charged with the responsibility of power. We appeal to all Americans, whether naturalized or native born, to prove to the world that we are Americans in thought and in deed, with one loyalty, one hope, one aspiration. We call on all Americans, to the great traditions of their common country, and above all things, to keep the faith.

Discovery of Grand Canyon.

The first white men to see the Grand Canyon of the Colorado were Cardenais and his 12 companions, who were guided there by Hopi Indians from Tusayan. Cardenais was sent by Colorado to find the wonderful river of which De Tovar had heard from the Indians. He remained four days on the rim at some point now unknown, looking in vain for a way to descend. It is always interesting to recall the heroic trip made by Maj. J. W. Powell down the Grand Canyon in small boats when practically nothing was known of its course or character. His journey began at Green River, Wyo., May 23, 1869, and was notably successful. —U. S. GET IN LINE FOR WILSON ADVICE TO POSTMASTERS

Washington, September 27.—What is regarded by Republican campaign workers as conclusive proof that the peculiar activities which have attended recent annual sessions of the Naional Association of Postmasters, presumably a non-political postal organization, in Washington, were merely steps leading to the turning of that organization to a vast political machine for the benefit of the Democratic national ticket, is coming to light.

Letters sent out originally, by Collo M. Selph, postmaster at St. Louis, to members of the organization have come to the association in Pennsylvania and elsewhere, to be distributed to postmasters in their respective states. They prove, it is declared, that postal efficiency, the supposed object of the organization of postmasters, is to be displaced for political efficiency.

The letters, which are reaching

Pennsylvania postmasters, as well as those in Ohio, West Virginia and other states, are regarded as nothing more than clubs which are used by the heads of those postmasters

who refuse to "get busy for Wilson."

HUGHES INDORSED BY COL. HARVEY

EDITOR WHO HELPED WILSON TO WHITE HOUSE URGES
VOTE FOR G. O. P.

SAYS NATION SUFFERED

Declares All Europe Misleads Pres. ident And WHI Reject E. S.
McMahon.

New York, Sept. 30.—Col. George Harvey, who more than any other individual helped make Woodrow Wilson President of the United States, now urges every patriotic American to vote for Hughes.

In the forthcoming issue of the North American Review, of which Col. Harvey is editor, he reviews the record of the Wilson Administration and says the two vital questions to be answered at the polls are, which of the two great parties at this particular juncture is the better equipped and the more likely to render the highest public service, and which of the two designated leaders is the more certain to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States. The overpowering issues are military and industrial preparedness, government by and for the people, national honor and opportunity.

Regarding military and industrial preparedness, Col. Harvey concluded that we can not expect adequate preparedness in the navy while Mr. Daniels remains at its head. He says Daniels has neither the skill nor the will to expend effectively the great sums of money to be drawn from the people by their command for immediate protection. If he is retained in authority for another four years, our first line of defense, already gravely impaired, will be shattered, and the navy itself from the highest Admiral to the humblest sailor will raise hands to high heaven in disgust and despair.

Haker Banked Higher.

The new Secretary of War is placed by Col. Harvey on a higher plane than Secretary Daniels. He says the amorphous scheme of federalizing the militia has already proved abortive, and if anything were needed to ally the finally of failure it appears in the blundering of the War Department's call to arms, which convinced every guardsman sent to the border that he had been tricked into an enlistment which he had never intended to make.

The question now is a question of the utilization of the resources in hand to the greatest advantage of the country in obtaining the quickest and most effectual result by the Republicans who are sincere in their advocacy of preparedness, or the Democrats who are not.

Col. Harvey calls attention to the plans being formulated by the world powers for mutual trade increase at the close of the war and the capture of the markets of the world and adds, that what this may mean to American manufacturers, workingmen and farmers is patent. The pressing question is which of the two parties is the better equipped to meet the situation. The Democrats, thinnly, thru the creation of a Tariff Commission, have conceded the need of protective measures. But they have only beckoned at the problem for political purposes without attempting in any serious way to effect a solution. On the other hand, Mr. Hughes is really convincing in his insistence that the only way to meet the situation is with protection, and we are driven to the practical conclusion that true industrial preparedness, in common with true military preparedness, can be attained only thru its sincere advocates and consistent friends, the Republicans.

Wage Legislation.

Reviewing the action of President Wilson in regard to the wage increase legislation, Col. Harvey says that since Ft. Sumpter was fired upon there has been no such assault upon the right of the American people to rule themselves as that which took place at Washington in August. The President, by forcing legislation granting increase of wages, and proposing that the increase should be paid thru an increase in freight rates, which, of course, the public would pay, deliberately proposed uniting the great body of his own constituency, the millions of low-paid working men, farmers, professional men, teachers, clerks, saleswomen and tollers in sweatshops no less than the well-to-do, in the interest not even of a class but of a class within a class comprising 400,000 voters. "The public," sentimentally remarked President Garrison of us, "the conductors, it's the carriage and we all perhaps are the vultures." And Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, by his act, indorsed the cynical assertion.

Col. Harvey says that Mr. Hughes, had he been President and had he been confronted by the brotherhoods' demand, would have responded, in effect, that he sympathized with the just demands of labor; that, personally, he believed in an eight-hour day, but as it was a matter, not of hours of labor, but of wages, which could not be fairly determined without full investigation, he would appoint an impartial commission of arbitration, but that they would not act and would not urge Congress to act under threats of distress. That is what Hughes would have done, instead of stridently declaring that he would "yield to no man firm adherence to the principle of arbitration," while actually yielding in practice at that very moment.

National Honor.

Justice would have been rendered by an impartial tribunal, there would have been no strike, and the honor and majesty of the Nation would have been preserved.

Regarding the issue of national honor and opportunity, Col. Harvey says that he would not recount the many episodes of the last three years which have flushed the cheeks of our countrymen with shame and humiliation. It suffices to say that no longer can an American stand erect before any tribunal in the world and declare with pride and confidence his citizenship. Whatever may be thought of Wilson's enviable position at home, it is certain he has no friends abroad. Even the his misfortune be one of uncontrollable circumstances rather than of wavering inaptitude, the fact exists that in all Europe he is one of the most mistrusted and condemned of men whose tender of mediation in the name of justice, fairness and humanity will be rejected unanimously with derision and scorn. As a purely practical matter, then, if we should indeed serve mankind, the way of opportunity is barred to Mr. Wilson and is wide open to Mr. Hughes, who in consequence of his previous nomination, stands alone among our public men and uncommitted and unsuspected and who is known to the outside world only as a great and just Judge, versed in the affairs of nations and alive to the needs of humankind.

Concluding, Col. Harvey says, we can say plainly that the utter absence of self-seeking on the part of Mr. Hughes throughout his entire career confirms the belief that he stands for America first; while no less surely the happenings of the past two years culminating in the betrayal of his country for the gratification of personal ambition, prove uncontestedly that Mr. Wilson stands for Wilson first.

Upon the clearly marked issues and as between the candidates there is no reason why any professed Republican, thoughtful Progressive or principled Democrat should not, and every reason why every patriotic American should vote for Charles E. Hughes for President.

He sold seventeen caravans at Omaha Monday. The fifty-one caravans brought $97,993.42.

AFTER SIX YEARS OF SUFFERING

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbus, Ohio.—"I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 178 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and it did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows my medicine has saved my life."—Mrs. J. S. BARLOW, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains just the virtues of roots and herbs needed to restore health and strength to the weakened organs of the body. That is why Mrs. Barlow, a chronic invalid, recovered completely. It pays for women suffering from any female disorder to insist upon having Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

REJECTS HEALER OF CRIPPLES

BECAUSE OF JEALOUSY CANNOT

OFFERED SERVICES FREE

H. A. Barker, Who by Home Manipulation Has Elected Remarkable Results.

London, Sept. 30.—H. A. Barker, the noted bone manipulator, who has cured hundreds of cripples and deformed persons, has been refused permission by the war office to relieve the suffering of wounded soldiers.

In spite of conclusive proof of hundreds of cures, in spite of the testimony of Dr. Walter Whitehead, H. G. Wells, Lord William Cecil, Rear Admiral Mark Kerr, W. T. Stead and many others, and simply because he has not had the standardized medical training and is therefore an outsider to the old fashioned practitioners, the British War Office turns down his generous and patriotic offer.

Mr. Barker, in an interview, said to me:

"It is purely a question of jealousy. You in America can hardly realize the immense conservatism of the medical profession in England. I have not had the training conventionally accepted as necessary and although Dr. Whitehead, president of the British Medical Association, has written a pamphlet in which he heartily endorses my methods, and many others of the profession personally give testimony of the cures I have made, yet I can get no public recognition.

"And I am not allowed to serve my country. I have offered to give up my private practice, at great loss to myself in order to relieve the suffering of those wounded in the war. I have shown that not only can I render fit for military service men who would otherwise be rejected, but I can also save the British government half a million pounds ($2,500,000) a year in pensions."

I asked him if he had done anything for the soldiers in his private practice.

"Yes," he said, "They came to me and pay big fees for the work I offered to do for the government free of charge. And I have physicians come to see me to be cured of bone troubles. Yet these same medical men refuse to give me public recognition."

Mr. Barker's case has come up in parliament and even there he met the same fate. Sir Arthur Markham cited the case of a young soldier whose knee was injured by shrapnel. Although for months he received the best attention the medical corps could give him, and was for sixteen weeks in different hospitals under the best army surgeons he got no relief. He suffered intense pain from his knee and had to use a cane constantly.

Finally he went before a medical board consisting of seven doctors, was operated on and discharged from the army on pension. Some time later he went to Mr. Barker and was put right in five minutes, walking across a park immediately after the operation without the aid of a cane and suffering no pain. In a short time he was as strong as he ever was.

The British papers have published recently many letters protesting against the treatment Mr. Barker has received. Public opinion is being aroused over the case. Mr. Barker said recently:

"I am the only man in the world using this method. That is a tremendous thing to say but it is nevertheless true. And just because I am the only one doing this the medical profession, 'for reasons of medical etiquette,' not only refuses to accept me or my work, but has persuaded the war office that, not having had their training, I am unfit to treat wounded soldiers."

SAVAGES ARE LED AGAINST BRITISH TROOPS BY WOMAN

Cape Town, Sept. 30.—There has appeared in the Kilimanjaro region a German woman warrior who is leading a force of native troops without the assistance of any other European.

Near the Mountains of the Moon this desperate woman waged a guerrilla warfare against the allied forces, and thrilling stories are told of the strange wild life which she and her black followers led.

Among the fighting forces and residents in British East Africa this white Amazon is known as the Bibi Sacharini, a name which has been given her by the natives.

The native story is that she is the wife of a German commandant who was killed in the fight which took place at Longido on September 26, 1914. She was so grief-stricken over the death of her husband that she openly declared to be revenged.

The natives, who spoke of her as a mad woman, said that her anger was particularly concentrated against the King's African Rifles, in a skirmish with which force her husband had been slightly wounded, and the East African Mounted Rifles.

In the early days of the East African campaign, before and even after the arrival of the Indian troops in November, 1914, there was a great deal of guerilla fighting, and on both sides there were retirements before superior forces. The Bibi Sacharini was seen on several occasions, her force varying from 100 to 200 natives. Through glasses many officers of the British forces have seen this white woman commander in her kraal surrounded by blacks. Never since the Longido fight has she been seen in the company of an European.

She is described as a big woman with black hair. She rides astride and is armed to the teeth. She seems to have a wonderful control over her native followers.

The Askaris tell wonderful stories of the Bibi Sacharini's prowess with the gun. She has a reputation of never missing anything on which she can pull trigger.

MOONLIGHT SCHOOLS

Moonlight schools will open in many counties next Monday evening, October 9th, for a six weeks' term. Those counties that could not begin with the September session will start with this session, and some of those that began in August will have a second term beginning with October 9th. The Kentucky Literacy Commission, Frankfort, Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, President, furnishes books, tablets, &c., and all information.

A prize trip to Washington is to be given by Kentucky's Senators and Congressmen to the moonlight school teacher who teaches the largest number to read and write in his school, including, also, the largest enrollment and best attendance. Credits are given by the two State Normals on all of their courses to those teachers who teach a full six weeks' term of moonlight schools. Twenty-five thousand emancipated from illiteracy this year is the slogan for the State.

How Cataract Is Contracted.

Mothers are sometimes so thoughtless as to neglect the colds which their children contract. The inflammation of the mucous membrane, at first acute, becomes chronic and the child has chronic cataract, a disease that is seldom cured and that may prove a life's burden. Many persons who have this loathsome disease will remember having had frequent colds at the time it was contracted. A little forethought, a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judiciously used, and all this trouble might have been avoided. Obtainable everywhere.

THE COST OF LIVING.

"The high cost of living is a serious problem in every American home. The Republican party in its platform attempted to escape from responsibility for present conditions by denying that they are due to a protective tariff. We take issue with them on this subject and charge that excessive prices result in large measure from the high tariff laws enacted by the Republican party."—Democratic National platform, 1912.

And right now, in this year 1916, the cost of living under a Democratic Congress is higher than ever known, and the Government report shows it to be still increasing. A loaf of bread at the time the above platform was adopted was more than enough for an ordinary family. Now the same priced loaf resembles a boarding house biscuit.

And where is this extra money going? To the farmer? No. The prices are not increased until the farmer has sold out. He may possibly get a small per cent more for his wheat but pays over a hundred per cent more for his flour. The country still has trusts and they are just as active under a Democratic administration as they ever were under a Republican.

The cost of living plank is just another one of those that were smashed in the wreck.

After the European war something is going to tariff we don't have protection.

The echo of that Republican rally in Louisville Saturday night sounded good down here in Ohio country.

Wonder if Senator James will tell us about sending that load of campaign literature to Kentucky by the Franklin method when he speaks here.

An Illinois butcher has been accused of selling dead cattle. What a shame! Seems like the butcher ought to leave a little life in the tenderloin.

The defeat of the President's candidate for the congressional nomination in New Jersey recalls the fact that Wilson is a college professor and not a primary instructor.

New Yorkers are betting two to one on the election of Hughes. Furthermore Wilson backers are demanding odds of two to one and New York gamblers usually guess pretty well.

Villa has turned orator and in a speech in Mexico the other day he declared he was friendly to Americans. Of course, Americans haven't done anything to him. Why shouldn't he be?

The time when we could be economical by rolling up paper and lighting the lamp from the fire in the grate is tucked away somewhere in the bygone days. Paper is worth its weight in gold now whether in the bank note form or plain.

The cost of newspaper has increased in the last few years until it is now three times what it was in 1912. Seven cents a pound is what weekly publishing companies must pay at present and unless conditions are remedied soon all country papers will either be forced to raise their price or suspend publication. Other materials connected with the newspaper business have also increased in price and subscribers who have fallen behind with their subscriptions should make mercy.

Morrow's speech in Owensboro Saturday was one of the popular Kentucky Republican's best. What Daviess county thinks of his ability was shown when many were forced to leave the court house because they could not gain entrance. Morrow will have a crowd most anywhere he goes and his logical reasoning will make votes among them.

OHIO GETTING BUSY.

Reports from over the country indicate that supporters of Hughes and Fairbanks are getting busy and interested in the coming presidential election is growing. Organization is with the interests of the Republicans. Candidates are being formed in the precincts and it looks like a good old time majority in November.

Ohio county is Republican because Republican policies are best for the welfare of her people. The voter realize that after the European war we must have protection. They realize that it would be folly to throw open our markets to foreign farm products.

Mining and farming is Ohio country's chief industries. Let in the farm products from South America and other foreign countries and our farm produce prices are ruined and the industry injured. Open our borders to foreign made tools and many of our factories must close. Close our factories, thereby cutting off coal demand, and our miners suffer.

Ohio county voters are not in the lead in the direction that "he has kept us out of war." The majority of them do not feel call upon to "thank God for Wilson." Rather, they thank God for having kept us out of war when Wilson came so near getting us into it.

Ohio county Republicans have cause to feel optimistic. They believe that, with the assistance of some good Democratic votes, they have a splendid chance to elect a Congressman. They appreciate these Democratic votes and respect the easterners.

A BLOW TO MR. WILSON.

There was a primary election in New Jersey, the home of President Wilson, last week and the result is anything but pleasing to administration backers. Judge Westcott, who twice nominated Mr. Wilson for the Presidency, was pitted against Senator Martine, who had repeatedly denounced the weak foreign policy of the administration for the Democratic nomination for the Senate. The Wilson organization was extremely divided on nominating the President's friend and loyal supporter.

Senator Martine was strongly and forthrightly opposed by New York journals which support the Wilson administration and surely, thought the country, the President's candidate will be nominated. But the combination of forces were overthrown and Martine was nominated by a vote of two to one.

If the Wilson organization in his own State is not strong enough to nominate the President's personal friend and supporter for the Senate in its own party can the National organization be strong enough to cause people of all parties to rally to the support of the Democratic ticket in sufficient numbers to elect Woodrow Wilson in November? If the President's own party men in his own State will support one who has denounced his policies in preference to a loyal supporter can the voters of the country be expected to endorse Wilson and his policies by returning him to the Presidency?

Where it has been put to a real test the people have lost no opportunity to make plain their disapproval of the President's policies and the mismanagement by the Democratic party. As days go by the election of Hughes and Fairbanks seems more certain.

THE ECHO OF ANTIQUITY.

The Hartford Republican is reminded of a fact which its young editor will possibly get onto if he ever ventures far out into the political zone, and that is, if every candidate for office were to undertake to run down and throttle all the false reports circulated against him, he wouldn't have time to sleep or eat his meals. No candidate can possibly escape being accused of some wrongdoing in his life. In the meantime we would also remind our young friend that in agitating attacks of Democrats against Democrats, he is exposing the vulnerability of glass houses situated in his own building.—Hartford Herald.

Now aren't you ashamed, you old dear, to be so unencouraging to one just starting out in journalism; one so youthful and unsophisticated? We thought it was all right because we remembered the kind manner in which you gave advice to Progressives and Republicans four years ago. Surely one who has dived so deeply into the realms of politics; one whose political service recognizes only the existence of Methuselah as a rival and one who, judging from the editorial, could recall things politically "dat hapened befo' de wah" would make no such mistake. We didn't know. We just kinder followed along.

But say, Mr. Political Antiquity, are you denying it? Mehbe you would like to deny for the "busy public man" that he said, "I have a petato patch & a well cultivated and you follows down here can go to it so far as I am concerned." Mr. James H. Williams says Congressman Johnson, who by the way is a candidate for another term, made that statement to Hartford Democrats last summer. We have Mr. Williams word for it. He says he has eight mighty good witnesses. Are you denying it? It so, be plain about it and don't keep us blushing from week to week with personal references to our nearness to the sweet sixteen.

We didn't know we were making a political blunder. Those words added a little ruse to our youthful age and we just couldn't keep from commenting. Perhaps, tho, when we have followed the long trail and have reached the lofty political position or which the reward is the grand privilege of being a defeated candidate for postmaster we will learn that a public man hasn't time to deny that he told this fellow and that fellow to go to hell.

Working Hours.

Democrats and Republicans alike are fully aware that when the war closes in Europe that European countries, those of the allies and those of the Central Powers as well, will each organize to capture, so far as they can, the markets of the world for the distribution of the outputs of their industries.

Democrats and Republicans alike realize that when the disbanded armies return to their homes and the returned soldiers seek employment at their former vocations, the mills, the shops, the factories of Europe will be offered labor at low prices, and that every wheel and every loom and every forge and every furnace will be put to work using that low-priced labor, and that its outputs will be pressed for sale in our markets as well as the markets of every other country on the face of the earth. British and French, German and Russian, Austrian and Japanese, Belgian and Turkish industries will be supplied with millions of men who have for years endured hardships and privations upon daily pay that would not provide an average American family with bread alone, and these millions must work, and will work at starvation wages, and the markets of other nations will be swamped by their cheaply produced and cheaply sold outputs.

The gold that these countries have parted with since the war began, these foreign Governments, foreign bankers, foreign manufacturers, foreign merchants, with their foreign debts of merchantmen, will organize to regain, and they will strive their utmost to regain it from the people of the United States, who now hold much of it in their possession.

Society in the United States may favor an eight-hour day, as President Wilson says, and every person in this country would be delighted if our farmers and our farm laborers, our merchants and their clerks, our manufacturers and their operating forces, our mine owners and our miners, our contractors and their workers could all afford to work but eight hours or five hours or three hours and make profits over and above expenses of their work at those hours. But how about it when society in foreign lands competes with our outputs through its outputs of workers on one-third wages admirably organized and very efficient working 10, 12 and even 14 hours per day in foreign countries? What chances for keeping our trade in foreign markets under these circumstances? What prospect of keeping our own markets from being swamped save by higher customs duties?

It will take all the energy, all the knowledge, all the wisdom of our statesmen and of our business men after the close of this European war to prevent disaster to our manufacturers in many lines, and to prevent shutdowns and lockouts in our industrial districts.

If the interests of the United States are not made the paramount interest by the Government of the United States, if theories do not give place to thoroughly practical ideas and methods, if stalwart Americanism does not succeed to idiosyncrasies in our foreign relations, it will not be a question of eight hours' work in our mills and shops and mines and factories, but a question of shutdowns and lockouts in our industrial districts.

CLUB IN HARTFORD

ENTHUSIASM SHOWN AT REPUBLICAN MEETING SATURDAY NIGHT.

About twenty-five Hartford Republicans gathered at County Headquarters last Saturday night and organized a Hughes Club here. The meeting was called to order by R. H. Martin, who was elected temporary chairman. The organization was effected and Allison Barnett and Otto C. Martin were elected president and secretary, respectively, of the permanent organization. W. C. Blankenship was elected vice president and E. S. Howard assistant secretary.

The work of the club as outlined for the next several weeks will be to assist in the election of Hughes and Fairbanks and the Republican ticket. It is the intention of Campaign Chairman Condit to organize clubs similar to this all over the country.

The local club met for the second time last night with a largely increased membership. Those desiring to become members of the club should turn in their name to any member of the organization. Any one expecting to vote for one or more Republicans at the coming election is eligible for membership and is urged to turn in his name at once.

Much enthusiasm has been manifested at the meetings of the club and a spirit of optimism reigns in regard to the political outlook this fall among the members. About seventy-five members have been enrolled.

Bogus Comforters.

Ed. Note—The following article, written especially for The Republican upon invitation is from the pen of a former Ohio columnist and a journalist of note. Mr. Benton's picture of mental torture rendered bereaved families by wrong things said at wrong times is true to life and such things happen daily to some unfortunate. Such thoughtlessness is a drawback to humanity and a handicap to medical science and if this article causes a few words of cheer to replace gloomy phrases its mission will be well filled. We hope to have contributions from the pen of Mr. Benton frequently:

I recently visited a bereaved home. The husband and father had been suddenly stricken and died in a few minutes, leaving a bereaved widow, after 51 years of happy married life. One unmarried daughter remained as the only consolation of the mother, past 70 years of age. The mother is an invalid, being afflicted with conditions incident to old age.

Rheumatic pains and general infirmities of old age tend to depress the spirits and vitality, and grief over the loss of a loved companion is apt to be acute under such circumstances. In this case there was added a predisposition to look on the dark side of life and to nurse the grief over the lost companion. Under such conditions, thoughtful neighbors call to express their sympathies and to cheer up the afflicted as best they can. And such kindly visits may be beneficial or it reverse, depending upon the judgment and good sense of the visitor.

On a Sunday afternoon three ladies "visited the afflicted," no doubt, with the most kindly motives. But their judgment was badly out of line. I, with difficulty, restrained myself from suggesting that the visit be cut short. When they finally departed the widow was greatly depressed and on the verge of an emotional collapse. As each of the three callers arrived in rapid succession, their inquiries after the health of the invalid, led to a repetition of the "aches and pains," and tore open afresh the wounds of bereavement. Each in turn bemoaned the loss of its husband, and with the three taking turns of recounting all the recent deaths in the community, and all those expected shortly to die, as well as those who ought to die, the picture of gloom that they depicted well nigh put the patient to bed.

"Wasn't it awful about the death of Mrs. H.?" She died on the operating table while the doctors were entitling her to pieces. Those doctors do not understand their business. Why they used ether bottles of ether and were two hours doing the operation. And when Mrs. A. was operated on they used only three drops of ether and she got well. If they had not operated on Mrs. B. she might have lived several years. And just think of it, they have put her into a casket and don't let any callers look at the corpse. Only at eleven o'clock they open the casket for an hour for the people to view the remains. And what do you think of it? They are going to have a funeral service at the home and then take the body to the cemetery and bury it without letting the casket be opened.

"Are you going to the cemetery tomorrow to see the burial?"

"Well, I'm not going near the place because it is so queer to bury a person without opening the coffin to give the public a view of the remains."

"Where is your daughter gone to? Is she sick in bed?" She looked so bad the last time I saw her. She takes her father's death so hard. If she does not cheer up, she will be down sick and then what will you do?"

"What! Gone to the cemetery all alone to take flowers to put on the grave? It is not safe for her to go there alone—especially on a Sunday when so many automobiles are running over people every day. Why, I read in a paper how many people are getting killed by them there automobiles all over the country. She went with Mrs. Jones? Too bad. Why Mrs. Jones' husband has been dead two months and she takes on just as bad as ever. It's awful how she takes on, and he died and never left a cent of insurance and now that woman has to work to support herself and that brat of hers, and how she will ever pay the funeral expenses of her husband, I don't know. Why, you ought never to have let your daughter go to the cemetery with that woman. What she needs is somebody to cheer her up. And Mrs. Jones crying right out loud every time anybody mentions about her husband dying, cannot cheer up any body who has lost her pa, like your daughter has. How long has she been gone? Two hours! Why, she ought to have been back an hour ago. I wonder if something has happened to her. At this point the almost distracted mother turned her distressed face to me, when I spoke for the first time during the visit or conversation. I told the mother that the walk in the sunshine and open air would do her daughter good, that she was of mature years, and amply able to take care of herself. And she need have no fears for her safety. Whether or not the gloomy tatter took the hint I do not know.

It she suddenly noticed the clock and took her departure after advising the widow to cheer up and bear her troubles as well as she could.

As this woman passed out the gate another woman with a bright countenance entered. She wore a motherly good natured expression, and I thought it a timely visit from such a woman. And her brief interview cheered up the now thoroughly depressed widow and I joined in the conversation and the sad face brightened up, the daughter returned much refreshed from her two hours respite from the gloom of her saddened home environment. And for the next hour no reference was made to the dead or dying.

Before I ended my visit, I had a talk with the mother and daughter in which I told them that it was natural and proper that they should feel deeply their loss. But that the dead had lived a long and useful life, and that in the nature of things his work was done, and he had gone to his reward. But their work was not yet completed. That in the nature of things, as time passed, their wounds would heal and they would become reconciled. Their faith and religious beliefs would cheer them in the expectation of a happy reunion with their loved one who had gone before them. And that spirit of hope should be their guide and comfort in their grief.

But, I cannot but regret that some sort of censorship cannot be devised to shut the mouths of the good intentioned but pestiferous "comforters" such as abound in all communities, when bereavement falls upon a household.

Fish Live When Frozen.

The fear of freezing live fish and reviving them several weeks or months later has been achieved by the Swiss scientist, M. Pictet. The scientist put 28 live fish in a box that contained water rich in oxygen, in which several pieces of ice floated. The temperature of the water was then reduced slowly until it froze. At the end of about two months the eel was gradually thawed, and the fish, it is said, were found alive. In such an experiment, the scientist reports, it is essential that the water shall remain frozen and that it shall have contained pieces of ice for from 15 to 18 hours before the whole mass is frozen. The process of thawing must also be slow. Through this process it is believed that Siberian sturgeon and Alaskan salmon can be exported alive to distant markets.

LEADERS ADMIT FAILURE OF "GENERAL" STRIKE

New York, Oct. 2.—Facit admission of the failure of the "general" sympathetic strike in New York in behalf of the striking street carmen was made in a report late to-day to a conference of labor leaders, which discussed the general situation. The leaders recommend that every union member in the city be assessed $1 for the benefit of the subway, elevated and surface car employees, who are on strike in Manhattan, the Bronx and parts of Westchester county.

No decision as to further efforts to call out all unionists in sympathy with the strikers was taken and there was no formal admission that the strike plan had collapsed.

Police headquarters announced that a canvass made by police men showed that only 408 men had responded to the call for a general strike.

More than 100,000 members of the United Hebrew trades returned to work after their three-day holiday, as did 3,100 brewery workers.

THREE WOMEN FOUND DEAD IN THEIR CHAIRS

Lancaster, O., Oct. 1.—Neighbors of Agnes and Alice Smeters, twin sisters, seeing no activity about the home of the two women today, entered the house tonight and found the two women and Miss Mary Stratton, 30, a visitor sitting erect in rocking chairs and all three dead. There was no sign of violence or poisoning and an examination of the gas pipes revealed no leaks.

Medical attention revealed no cause for the deaths and the bodies have been taken charge of by the Coroner, who is attempting to solve the mystery of the deaths.

That death had come quickly was evidenced by the fact that one of the sisters had her glasses on and was holding a newspaper. There was no food in the house except half an apple pie and this showed no sign of poison.

The stomachs of the three women will be sent to Columbus Monday for analysis, to see if any poison is to be found in them.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 4.—A reduction in the amount of alcohol in beer was advocated by speakers at the twentieth annual convention of the Master Brewers' Association, which ended yesterday. Hugh S. William F. Cruthouse, of St. Louis, was elected president.

JUDGE SLACK CLEANS UP MUCH BUSINESS

RECENT TERM OF COURT A BUSY ONE—MORE JURY TRIALS HEARD.

Hon. R. W. Slack adjourned the Ohio Circuit Court on last Saturday for the term. During this term an unusual large amount of business was transacted. More jury trials were had before the court without the intervention of a jury than at any other term in the history of the court.

During the term Judge Slack was designated as Special Judge by the Governor to try an election contest in Knox County, Kentucky. This case was an important one, and one in which the Governor had had considerable trouble in securing a Judge to preside. The Court of Appeals on the 3rd inst., affirmed the judgment rendered by Judge Slack.

During the term of court Judge Slack also acted as arbitrator in settling a controversy between the coal operators and the miners settled a strike or controversy which had been existing between the operators and miners for several months.

ENGLISH GIRL OFFERS EYE FOR HER COUNTRY

Paris, Oct. 3.—A young English girl has written to Dr. Rochon Davignaud offering to give one of her eyes to a soldier who has lost his sight serving France. The girl, who lives in North Shields, had read a recent statement by Dr. Davignaud, one of the most famous oculists in France, that it was possible to save the sight of a man wounded in the eye by grafting a portion of the cornea of another person. In her letter she said:

"If you believe that there is one chance of success in a million I will give you one of my eyes for a soldier who has lost his sight serving France. I would prefer to give my eye to one to whom it would be especially useful, such as an inventor or an officer of great value."

"If my offer is accepted I shall consider myself under an obligation to you for permitting me to be of use to my country in the only way possible to me."

Base Ball At McLeary.

Oct. 2.—Editor Republican. Dear Sir:—On last Saturday evening the High School boys of Livermore lit in on us with about the same fury as a Kansan tornado. They seemed to be so badly excited at the possibility of taking the scalps of our boys on the diamond that they collided their cars on the street upon their arrival, but after a look at the team which they had motored so many miles to trim, decided that an error had been made on the part of the Livermore Captain and going to the ball park and seeing the line up they'd come to skin, they at once began to doubt their surgical tools, and after our distinguished Mr. Pirtle, twirled a few they, as in the parable of old, began to make excuses and in a few minutes they took their departure to a land where once horne no traveler returns, that to play ball. All of our ball team are from that State where they believe every one to be a four-flasher till he lays all five of them down face up.

Taylor present, also County Attorney C. M. Crowe being on hand as legal advisor, met in regular session at the court house on Wednesday. County Clerk Blankenship was in the chair as chief scribe.

County construction work on the above named road, $440.03. County Road Engineer's pay roll, $2,242.63 and on Hartford and Morgantown State-aid road, county construction, $1,898.57.

County Judge Wilson nominated

or appointed, Homer Milligan, of Hinton, as county road engineer for the ensuing term in room of T. H. Benton, but the Fiscal Court yesterday by a majority vote refused to confirm or approve the appointment. At the time of writing this article nothing further had been done in the last named matter.

The Court ordered the Hartford and Centertown State-aid road closed to all traffic from the corporate limits of the town of Hartford to the bridge near Worth Tichenor's tenant house until further notice.

STRAY STREAKS.

(By Fluke McFluke.)

Up in Ohio the other day, three old maids were found dead in their chairs, as no evidence of poison of any sort was found the presumption is that they talked themselves to death, or else, died of despair.

The warm, bright weather during the past few days threw Al and Dr. Pirtle into a severe case of Hass fever.

Bob Walker went down in the country the other day and he says that on the way he saw a squirrel playing in the road with a Jay bird. W. H. Parks was with him, but we haven't been able so far to get Writer to verify Bob's statement. Gee! how we wish we had some of that stuff.

Sherman Vick, who is perhaps the best known traveling man that makes this town, was here a few days back. Sherman left his grip and overcoat upon a box on the side walk in front of a grocery in town, and at last someone neither had been found. Our idea of a man with nerve is one who would purloin a grip from a traveling man, especially when that gent was your uncle Sherman. And this is a dry bog too.

The question with some is, has anybody here seen Charlie?

It appears that Jay, birds, like chickens, come home to roost.

Our wife had us get a quarter's worth of breakfast bacon, 25 cents worth of sugar and two bits worth of fat bacon the other day and just like her letters, in looking for something else, she found the whole blamed lot in our vest pockets two or three mornings later.

Since the Bank of Hartford has installed a sort of thinking machine it isn't quite so hard on Miss Maggie, you see, she has help now.

Sudan Grass Becoming Staple.
Sudan grass is well adapted to withstand drought and is fast becoming recognized as a staple and dependable crop. G. E. Thompson, crop specialist, division of extension, Kansas State Agricultural College.

Sudan grass is adapted to practically all soils except those which are very wet and poorly drained or those which are extremely alkaline or sandy. Soil conditions generally favorable to Sudan grass are similar to those favorable to the other sorghums. It yields best in rich loam to sandy loam soil that is well drained. Thinner and poorer soils necessarily produce lighter yields, although Sudan grass, like the other sorghums, is an extensive feeder, and is one of the profitable crops on thin, poor upland soils. Being a native of a hot, dry climate, it is naturally adapted to relatively dry conditions.

Sudan grass can be used readily in any ordinary farm rotation. It is annual, and can be substituted in the average rotation for corn or any other sorghum crop, or it can be grown in the longer rotations instead of the perennial hay or pasture grasses. It is a crop that matures quickly and often can be used as a catch crop. Because it makes a much better sod than the ordinary annual grasses, and because its growth of foliage is rank and rapid, it has been used to a considerable extent for pasture purposes.

Transplant in the Fall.

In general the fall is the best time to plant trees and shrubs on the home grounds. When planted in the fall, the plant is given an opportunity to spend its strength in producing new root growth rather than top growth. These new roots are the "feeding" roots and if well established will give added vigor to the plant the following year. The protection and health of the root system is the most important consideration in plant growing.

There are some exceptions to this rule. If the summer and fall seasons have been unusually dry and the plant has suffered from drought, it may be best to wait until early spring to transplant, as plants may recuperate during the winter. In some parts of the country late summer planting of evergreens has proved best.

It is best to transplant all trees and shrubs in the fall. It is possible to move plants after they have "leafed out," but there is some danger of over-evaporation of moisture from the leaves and bark which will exhaust the strength of the roots. The plant will then show wilt and spend its strength on new leaves instead of readjusting its roots. To lessen the danger from evaporation it is always well to cut the tops back severely and, if in leaf, the trunk of a tree should be wrapped with straw or sphagnum moss to keep it moist. It is better to transplant early in the morning or late in the afternoon.

Rainy or cloudy days are the best ones in which to do planting. Transplant after the leaves drop in the autumn or before they open in the spring. Remove injured roots, broken branches, and cut back the tops. Preserve the fine hair-like roots; they are the feeders, the others only serve as anchors. Never allow the roots to dry out in the wind or sun. Cover them with earth or wet straw. Dig the hole much larger than the spread of the roots and do not bend or crowd them. Tramp the soil firmly and closely about the roots but leave about 2 inches of loose soil at the surface. These planting rules are important. A tree lives longer than a man; take time and care in planting it, and in general, plant in the fall.—Globe-Democrat.

Points to Decide in The Poultry Business.

Live stock men often raise the question as to which breed of cattle, hogs or sheep is profitable, but the average farmer, if he is keeping pure bred poultry at all, has never stopped to weigh the good and bad points of any particular breed. His neighbor may have Single Comb Brown Leghorns; on the other side of the road his neighbor has perhaps Barred Plymouth Rocks; another has Rhode Island Reds, and another, we will say, White Wyandotters.

Not because the average farmer has made a study of any of these breeds, but simply because he can get eggs cheaper from some particular friend who has good grades, he secures the grade eggs and gets us a result no better chickens than he already has. For very little more money he could have secured pure bred eggs that would give him double profit.

The first thing that a poultryman must decide is whether it is to the best interest of his family to have a general business he expects to furnish the source of revenue. Go back 35 years and there were few breeds of standard poultry. When one found pure-bred flocks on the farm they were kept with some definite object in mind. It was eggs the farmer wanted. Single Comb Brown Leghorns were found; for the general supply of eggs and roasting chickens and heavy fowls for either table or market the farm flock was composed of either Brahmans or Langshans; if a combination of these qualities was desired the Barred Plymouth Rock predominated. Today, however, we have fewer flocks of Brahmans and Langshans and more flocks of the utility and Mediterranean breeds.

Where at one time we had only one color in Leghorns and one color in Barred Plymouth Rocks, today we have five and six varieties of each one of these breeds. Other breeds are now on the market having the same qualities and belonging to the same class as the Plymouth Rocks and Leghorns.

In the general purpose fowls, of which the Plymouth Rocks form a part, we have the Rhode Island Reds, Wyandotters, Sussex and Bluekeys. In the Mediterranean class, to which the Leghorns belong, we have the Minorcas, Andalusians, Campines and Anconas.

The Mediterranean breeds are recognized as heavy producers of white eggs. The average weight of the Mediterranean pullet is from 3½ to 4 pounds, and they mature and commence laying when about five months old. The general purpose breeds produce as many eggs, but the eggs are brown in color. The general purpose breeds are recognized as late fall and winter layers. Cold weather does not have the same effect on the heavier breeds that it has on the Mediterranean. The general purpose breeds do not mature as early, and as a rule do not lay much before seven months. Of course, a poultryman can not grow 7 pounds of flesh on a utility fowl as quickly as he can 3½ or 4 pounds on the Mediterranean. Neither can one expect the feed ration for the flock of 100 hens of one of the Mediterranean breeds to be the same as that necessary to produce a given egg yield in a like manner number of 7-pound fowls in the American class.

There is no "best breed" of poultry, for if there were a best breed it would soon be adopted by all farmers to the exclusion of all other breeds.

Right now is the time to visit the local county fair, or perhaps the state fair, and spend some time in the poultry show-room. Ask questions of the different breeders and decide definitely for yourself which breed appeals to your fancy and which comes nearest to being really what you want on your farm. After the selection is made, eight or ten good, thrifty well matured pullets and a male bird a year or two old can be purchased, or perhaps one can find ten or twelve year old hens and an exceptionally well developed cockerel of high quality to mate with them. They would be better breeding stock. In order to be successful decide definitely on one breed and continue with that breed using new blood from time to time from the best flocks in the country.

Mr. Wilson has scrambled the diplomatic eggs in Mexico and wants someone to tell him how to maneuver them.

Doubtful States necessary for Democrats to win 117

In the doubtful States with Republican leaning, the Enquirer places Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, Connecticut, New Jersey, Kansas, South Dakota, Montana, and Idaho. States classed as doubtful with Democratic leaning: Maryland, Missouri, Nebraska, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada.

Allowing Mr. Hughes all of the doubtful states with Republican leaning, he would have a majority of 37 in Electoral College. Allowing Mr. Wilson all of the doubtful States with Democratic leaning, would leave him 67 Electoral votes short of election. Then to win Mr. Wilson must have all the States the Enquirer classes as Democratic, all of the States classed as doubtful with Democratic leaning and must gain 68 votes in States classed as doubtful with Republican leaning.

It is a shame that those pesky New York gamblers, who put business before politics, persist in betting two to one on Hughes. They ought to see that it takes the courage out of the Democratic voters.

The earnestness and firmness of Charles Evans Hughes appeal alike to the confidence and respect of the American people, and there will be no "dallying" around the flag in his administration.

As a warrior, President Wilson has adopted the typewriter as a machine gun.

Secretary Tammitt issues a vehement denial of the press dispatches of last week that President Wilson, alarmed at the results in Maine and the gathering impetus of the Republican Campaign, would abandon his policy of remaining at Shadow Lawn and make a speaking tour of the country. Secretary Tammitt admits the President will accept invitations to speak in various cities of the country, but declines to call it a tour. Well, wasn't it Lord Balfour who said, that most disputes arises over the meaning of words?

Senator James and other spell binders are telling tobacco growers that the administration has forced England to recede from her embargo on tobacco to the great benefit of these growers in Kentucky. This change extends only to "elgar" tobacco, none of which is grown in Kentucky.

What would Hughes do in Mexico?

The answer is easy and has been made by Judge Hughes. He would protect American lives and property and let Mexico settle her own internal affairs.

Mr. Wilson has scrambled the diplomatic eggs in Mexico and wants someone to tell him how to maneuver them.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

JAPAN TO RENEW HER DEMANDS AFTER WAR

HOLDS BAR AGAINST IMMIGRATION AND LAND HOLDING DEROGATORY TO DIGNITY.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Japan's purpose to renew after the European war her contention for the right of her people to emigrate to and own land in the United States, suggested in a New York paper yesterday by Baron Yoshiro Sakatani, former finance minister in the Tokio cabinet finance minister in the day at the Japanese embassy. Negotiations over these questions, which came to a deadlock two years ago, are not regarded by Japan as concluded, it was explained, but merely postponed, while the larger issues of the war are being dealt with.

The deadlock followed a long series of conferences between former Secretary Iyan and Baron Cinda, then the Japanese ambassador, and an exchange of notes between the two governments over the alien land legislation enacted by California. After the State Department had pointed out that under its constitution the United States Government could do no more than seek to prevent such legislation, and that persons affected by it had recourse to the federal courts, Japan closed the exchanges with a note saying her complaint had not been answered and reserving "for the present further discussion of the issue."

The position of the Japanese Government, according to informal statements by embassy officials, still is that restrictions on immigration and land holding are not only derogatory to her dignity, but are unjust under International law, in that they are discriminatory against her in favor of other nations. Removal of these restrictions, it is explained, are regarded as Japan's third and final step in her rise to statehood, the first two and the abolition of extra-territoriality and the negotiation of commercial equality treaties.

While it is admitted that the present difficulties probably have put off the proposed $15,000,000 Japanese loan to China, it is said Japan will take her share in the $50,000,000 loan proposed by the foreign ministers to the group of English, French, Russian, Japanese and American bankers. Japan is said to be more than able to take her share of this loan because of the profits on munitions sold to Russia.

Japanese policy toward the proposed trade war after the war will be outlined here Friday with the visit of Baron Sakatani, who is just back from the recent allied economic conference at Paris. The baron will be entertained at lunch by James Brown Scott, secretary of the Carnegie Pease Endowment, and at dinner by Tokichi Tanaka, the Japanese chargé. Japan is said to be deeply interested in the proposed trade war, as her participation in it is counted upon to remove serious competition in China, her vital trade field.

American Jailed in Mexico.

Burton Wilson, president of the American Club of Mexico City, is held in jail there after being arrested by Carranza's own secret service men, according to Americans arriving at San Antonio, Tex., Monday, from the Mexican capital. No charges were preferred against Wilson, who represents seventeen foreign colonies in Mexico City as chairman of the International Committee.

When You Take Cold.

With the average man a cold is a serious matter and should not be trifled with, as some of the most dangerous diseases start with a common cold. Take Chamberlain's Tongue Remedy and get rid of your cold as quickly as possible. You are not experimenting when you use this remedy, as it has been in use for many years and has an established reputation. It contains no opium or other narcotic. Obtainable everywhere.

Bass Fishing and Work.

If bass fishing were in the category of day labor, the bass should worry. Heartaches, boneaches, sunburn, and mosquito bites fail to the lot of the bass fisher. Three days in advance of the date set for your martyrdom you begin to arrange for it. You first secure your boat. Five miles from home there is a creek where minnows and tonies are to be found. You must have crabs and dodson, crickets and grasshoppers, for when bass are dieting they are particular about their bill of fare. Boats may be had for fifty cents. They are not, of course, such boats as one would find at the Thousand Islands or at Central Park, New York. They are just boats, having two sides and a bottom, and thus managing to float. A tomato can is one of the chief requisites in bass fishing. It is necessary for baiting. Oars are a secondary consideration. Anything with a flat face (a fence board preferred) will answer the purpose, because when fishing for bass one sits and waits or snores and swears. If a man were obliged to occupy a church pew without a back to rest his spine against, what a howl of protest he would make! Yet he will sit in a leaky boat seven days a week and never grumble, and in spite of everything will sleep every night like a trooper.—Zim in Carrots Magazine.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging

Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave

Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without itsiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

A Distinctive Reason

What is the chief reason for the superiority of Royal Baking Powder?

There are several good reasons, but there is one which distinguishes Royal from other baking powders.

This reason, which every woman should know, is that Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar, which comes from grapes. This means a healthful fruit origin. It means natural food as distinguished from mineral substitutes used in other baking powders.

There is no alum nor phosphate in Royal Baking Powder.

LATEST WAR NEWS

Monday.

Eastern Front.—The Russians have renewed their offensive in the drive on Lemberg, and Petrograd claims two successes. Berlin admits one of these. In the Carpathians the Austrians have taken up the offensive with a small advance.

France.—British troops in the center along the Somme line have made an advance of a 3,000-yard front, and Faucourt l'Abbaye is reported to have been taken. The operations were aided by the armored "anks." German trenches near Morval and Clery were taken by the French.

England.—Another air raid by Zeppelins over Eastern England has taken place. One Zeppelin is reported to have been brought down in flames.

Macdonia.—The Serbians have captured Kalmakaloan Height, on the western end of the Macdonian front, for possession of which heavy fighting between the Serbians and Bulgarians has been in progress for some time.

Tuesday.

Romania.—Rumanian troops have crossed the Danube River and invaded Bulgarian territory, according to the official communication issued yesterday. The river was crossed between Rustchuk and Turtukal, the latter place being where the river leaves Bulgarian territory, and flows northeast through Rumania.

France.—The Germans at Faucourt l'Abbaye in fierce fighting regained a footing in some of the buildings of that town, just west of Guecourt and east of Courclette. The British improved their positions. The French report progress east of Bonchavesnes.

Wednesday.

Greece.—King Constantine of Greece, according to an Athens dispatch, has in his hands the resignations of the members of the Cabinet except those of the Premier and the Foreign Minister. It is probable that the new Cabinet will contain several supporters of former Premier Venizelos, who is in favor of Greece's entry into the war on the side of the Entente Allies.

Romania.—A Rome dispatch reports that Field Marshal von Mackensen has ordered the evacuation of the Dobrudja fortresses of Silistra and Turtukal in fear of their being enveloped by the Rumanians. Bucharest reports gains in Transylvania, but nothing is vouchsafed concerning the troops which invaded Bulgaria.

Russia.—Violent fighting has been in progress in Russia, west of Lutsk, and in Galicia. West of Lutsk the Russians have reported progress, but in the other region neither side has been able to gain any marked advantage.

Thursday.

Russia.—The fierce battle which has been raging for several days west of Lutsk, in Volhynia, is still without results. Berlin claims Rumanian troops which crossed the Danube have been hastily withdrawn in the fear of being encircled by Mackensen. Heavy engagements are in progress on the Hungarian frontier. In France continued rains have confined fighting to artillery battles.

Greece.—King Constantine has accepted the resignation of the Greek Cabinet and a new ministry is to be formed in which three followers of Venizelos will have portfolios.

FORDSVILLE ITEMS.

Oct. 4.—Miss Irene Miller, of Can-ville, visited friends and relatives here last week.

Mr. J. D. Cooper and family motored to Bowling Green yesterday to spend several days with relatives.

Mr. Ellis Mitchell and family, of Dundee, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Helen Smith Sunday.

Prof. O. L. Shultz and wife were in the Narrows Saturday.

Dr. E. P. Rodgers, wife and children were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Reynolds Saturday and Sunday.
